

3D MOTION DESIGNER (m/w/d)

We're on the lookout for a creative mind to join our Berlin team – someone who blends imagination, design excellence, and technical skills into powerful visual experiences.

What you should bring

- Several years of professional experience in media architecture, visual communication, motion design, or a related field
- Proficiency in After Effects, TouchDesigner, and/or comparable tools for motion design, creative coding, and real-time media applications
- Curiosity about emerging technologies and hands-on experience using generative AI for ideation, visualization, and content creation
- A strong sense of space, light, color, and movement, combined with a high level of design precision
- Good written and spoken German and English skills

Your responsibilities

- Develop visual concepts and creative directions for media and lighting projects in architectural contexts
- Conceptually design and create photorealistic visualizations of projects in 2D and 3D
- Create animated videos that bring project visions to life, and develop content and motion graphics for media façades and light art installations
- Develop mood boards and visual storytelling concepts
- Collaborate closely with our design and technology partners

What we offer

- Exciting projects where architecture, art, and technology meet
- Partnerships with leading architects and project developers
- An interdisciplinary, international team in a central Berlin location
- Creative freedom with the opportunity to bring visionary ideas into real spaces
- An open, collaborative, and entrepreneurial team spirit
- The latest tools, innovative technologies & continuous learning opportunities
- Flexible working models with office and remote days
- In-house workshops, team events – and plenty of inspiration along the way
